The Bear is a merry troubadour without a care in the world, who wanders about strumming his guitar and entertaining and annoying the other characters of Animaldom. His first serenade is to the squirrel family, who reciprocate by throwing a dipper at Mr. Bruin, which fastens itself to his head. After ridding himself of this incumbrance, the bear serenades Miss Monkey, but a shower of cocoanuts are his reward. He then starts out in search of delicacies to suit his stomach. Visiting a farmer, Mr. Bruin gets away with a barrel of cider and is enjoying it to the utmost until the farmer appears with his gun and shoots the barrel to pieces. An exciting chase follows with the farmer chasing the bear and the bear suddenly turning about and putting the farmer to rout. By this time, Mr. Bruin is having such a wonderful time that he thinks everything in the universe is his. He approaches a number of bee hives and knocks them over to get the honey. The bees swarm out and attack him, driving him, to the river and proving -- "That evil gains bring their pains".
